

The Watershed Institute

Watershed coordinators come to their positions with a wide variety of experiences, background knowledge, and training - but there is always more to learn! The Watershed Institute is designed to identify online and in-person trainings (most are free!) tailored to your specific needs. The institute will help you identify your strengths and weaknesses in the following skill areas:

- technical writing
- project planning
- volunteer recruitment and retention
- conflict management
- data analysis
- fundraising
- watershed sciences
- marketing and promotions
- outreach

The Watershed Institute will be available in December of 2013. Have more questions about the Watershed Institute? Do you have a suggestion for a great training we should include as part of the Watershed Institute? Get in touch with Stephanie McGinnis, Coordinator of Education and Outreach, at mcginnis@montana.edu or 406-994-6425.
